

Virtual Chief Information Security Officer (vCISO)

No CISO? No worries — we've got you covered

Organizations need an experienced CISO to drive critical initiatives and oversee an entire cybersecurity program with the technologies and skilled professionals required to protect the organization and their customers from modern security threats while meeting regulatory compliance requirements. Not every organization has the budget for a top-level CISO to manage security strategy and business continuity. These leaders are rare, making them challenging to hire and retain.

With decades of experience in security consulting and advisory services, Pondurance delivers a vCISO service that applies expertise where it is needed most. Our team of seasoned security consultants aligns with a wide array of key administrative, operational, and security program competencies to help organizations that are not in the position to bring in a full-time CISO to achieve their short- and long-term goals.

Manage and mature your security posture for a fraction of the cost of a C-suite headcount.

OUR PROCESS

Assess and Plan

With deep knowledge across multiple security and compliance standards, our vCISO consultants will assess the needs of your organization and provide expertise on security best practices as well as regulatory and statutory requirements.

Build and Implement

A detailed security program is designed for your organization, putting security and compliance at the forefront, along with contingency, disaster recovery, and business continuity plans, which are tested and put in place to improve your business' security posture. By using a security maturity model approach, your organization is able to progress in areas that require additional resources in order to achieve the desired goal of optimizing core security operations.

Monitor and Sustain

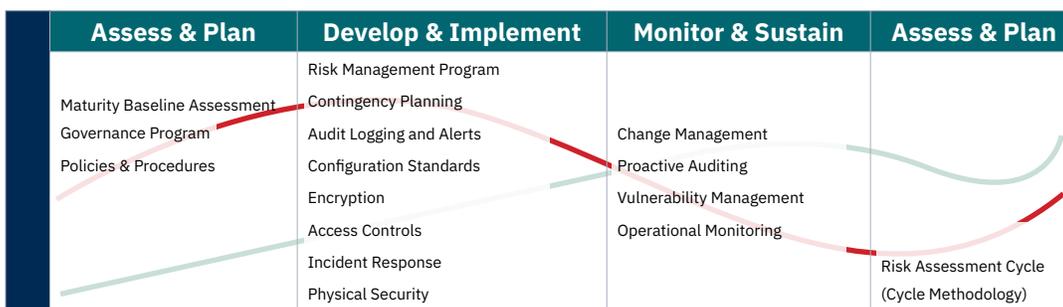

Pondurance will develop and implement needed policies, procedures and practices to address areas of improvement within your organization to help you sustain your proposed strategy.

This phase includes recurring activities provided by Pondurance, such as planned updates of your organization's risk assessment, response to security questionnaires, and other agreed-upon operational activities that enhance your security posture.

With Pondurance as your cybersecurity partner, you'll have strategic guidance to help establish and maintain long-term security goals to protect you from today's and tomorrow's security risks.
